

Iron County Register

Entered in the Postoffice at Ironton, Mo., as second class matter.

E. D. AKE, : : : : : EDITOR.

VOLUME XXX. NUMBER 40.

IRONTON, MO.

THURSDAY, APRIL 1, 1897.

Announcements.

We are authorized to announce J. M. HAWKINS as a candidate for Commissioner of Public Schools of Iron county, Mo., subject to the decision of the voters at the coming election to be held April 6th.

We are authorized to announce F. M. VANCE as a candidate for Commissioner of Public Schools of Iron county, Mo., subject to the decision of the voters at the coming election to be held April 6th.

We are authorized to announce J. L. HICKMAN as a candidate for Commissioner of Public Schools of Iron county, Mo., subject to the decision of the voters at the coming election to be held April 6th.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

April fool!
The rain still continues.
Has winter finally left us?
Tramps are still rather frequent visitors.

Best 2lb package Rolled Oats, 6 cts., at Bonanza Annex.

Lopez's milliner for the season arrives next Monday.

Buttons 1, 3, 4, and 5 cents per dozen at the Racket Store.

The county Board of Equalization will convene next Monday.

The new drug store being built across the street has the prettiest front in town.

A traveling medicine company—giving a free show—is billed at the Academy of Music for every night this week.

The candidates for School Commissioner, are, in race track parlance, "in the stretch." The election takes place next Tuesday.

Up to the present time there is said to be a fair prospect for a good yield of fruit, provided April doesn't bring any killing frosts.

Mrs. N. J. Lucas of Mill Springs has leased the residence west of the Blue Store from Mrs. Sontag and will occupy the same this summer.

The new hub factory will be connected with the railroad by a spur in the near future, to facilitate the shipment of the factory's products.

A heavy rain Tuesday night was accompanied by flashes of lightning and frequent and prolonged rolls of thunder. A veritable spring storm.

The docket for the coming term of the circuit court promises to be a light one, and the business of the session will probably all be transacted in a few days.

County court convened in adjourned session Wednesday and will probably adjourn Friday. The principle business in hand is settling with the Collector.

The camp at the rifle range will be over a quarter of a mile west from where it was situated last year. The officers seem to think the change desirable.

The latter part of last week was singularly cold for the time of year. Several mornings there was ice on the smaller ponds and along the banks of the streams.

The woolen mill property is advertised at Sheriff's sale in this issue of the REGISTER. The sale takes place April 27th during the session of the circuit court.

Wm. Gross recently purchased the old Barnes farm about one mile west of town. Mr. G. intends building a house thereon and generally improving the place.

The grand jury met in Madison county last week and adjourned without finding a single indictment. A very good showing for our neighbor on the eastern border.

Louis Miller is putting a handsome iron fence in front of his elegant home in Arcadia. Mr. Miller is evidently determined to have the handsomest home in the Valley.

Business at the granite quarries is still reported very dull with little prospect of an improvement in the near future. May be, though, better times are on the way.

When you want a spanking good team, and comfortable and pleasant rig call on H. M. Collins, the Ironton liveryman. He will fit you out, and the price will be reasonable.

H. M. Towles, a young man from Doniphan, who had served as a clerk in the State Senate during the late session of the Legislature, spent a couple of days in Ironton last week.

The entertainment given by the pupils of the colored school at the Academy of Music last Thursday evening was well attended, and the renditions were generally complimented.

The case in the case of the State vs C. B. Hill amount to over $500. The Legislature recently passed the deficiency bill and the costs will likely be paid now in the course of a week.

The extremely wet weather has seriously interfered with plowing for oats and other early crops. There have been but few days comparatively where the ground was dry enough to plow.

The REGISTER is of the opinion that a concerted move on the part of the people of this town would result in having the fast trains stop at this station as well as afford us other accommodations of which we are now deprived. Let our people take this matter in hand at once and see what can be done.

The Arcadia Valley Drug Company expects to be ready for business April 10th. The stock of goods is already bought and will be shipped as soon as the store house is sufficiently completed to receive them.

An effort is now being made to have mail taken from this place on No. 56, the north bound train in the morning. The service is needed and it is hoped the postal authorities will make the order without delay.

Special services were held at the Arcadia Convent chapel the past week by a priest from St. Louis. The reverend gentleman is a fluent and interesting talker and attracted large and attentive congregations.

Lieutenant Patterson of Jefferson Barracks was here Monday making arrangements for the lease of the rifle range another year. The camp may possibly be located a little west of where it was last season.

Rainy days have certainly grown monotonous during the past two months. More disagreeable weather than February and March have afforded would be hard to imagine. Let us hope April will afford a decided change.

Mr. Delano tells us that an inch and three quarters of rain fell in an hour last night. He says this is in excess of any record ever known before in the Valley. Several washouts both north and south, are reported along the railroad.

Fred Delano left last week for Little Rock and is now firing on an Iron Mountain engine out of that place. His run is toward Memphis on the Bald Knob road and the high waters have kept him at Wynne Junction for several days.

T. S. Lopez & Sons have employed a competent and experienced trimmer to take charge of their millinery department for this season. She will be here next Monday. An elegant stock is being received. Ladies invited to call and examine.

The lawns are beginning to take on their carpets of green and the buds of the trees are opening. Early gardening is well under way, the housewife is growing anxious to clean carpets, etc., and there is every evidence that the spring time is at hand.

In response to a recent request we will state that if the late Legislature made any important changes in the road law we have not been advised thereof. The County Clerk has received no intimation thereof nor have we seen any notice of the law.

A terrific rain fall last night made the creeks higher than they have been any time this year. The rain was accompanied by a terrible wind storm. It is feared considerable damage resulted. No trains passed either way during the night, nor up to eight o'clock this morning.

According to Wednesday's Globe-Democrat, 45,628 letters were received at the Post Office Department at Washington during the week ending March 27th, and ninety-five per cent of them were in reference to the fourth-class offices. Wonder how many of them were in reference to the Ironton post office?

An exchange says a lawyer in a court room may call a man a liar, a scoundrel, villain or thief, and no one makes complaint when court adjourns. If a newspaper prints such a libel on a man's character there is a libel suit or a dead editor. This is owing to the fact that the people believe what an editor says.

H. M. Collins, the livery man, has recently made additions and improvements in connection with his livery business until he now has unquestionably the best stocked and equipped stable in southeast Missouri. People intending to spend the summer in the Valley will do well to see Collins when in want of anything in the livery line—first-class rigs, safe horses, and careful drivers. He is prepared to furnish you any kind of an outfit for any occasion. Satisfaction guaranteed.

Our old friend, A. Begley, desires us to state that the REGISTER was not referring to him last week in saying there was a venerable individual in this section seeking a wife. Mr. B. says he has no intention, whatever, of embarking on the matrimonial sea and doesn't want to be bothered with the applications that would naturally follow the announcement that he was "in the market" again. Mr. B. is not the man to whom the REGISTER referred.

Our announcement column this week contains the name of Mr. A. B. Sloan, who is a candidate for County School Commissioner. Mr. Sloan is, and has been for some time, principal of the Kennett public schools, in which position he has given eminent satisfaction. He is a man of polished address, an able educator, a citizen of broad and intelligent views, and is deeply interested in the welfare of the public school system.—Malden News.

Fredericktown News: "The South-east Missouri Medical Association will meet in this city on Tuesday, May 4. There will be about thirty or forty physicians present. The program will consist of an address of welcome and response, vocal music by the ladies of the city, a business meeting, and the reading and discussing of papers on different medical questions. Dr. O. H. Hays of this city, is down to read a paper. The local physicians have selected E. D. Anthony to deliver the address of welcome on this occasion."

Mr. H. R. Charlton received a telegram to-day from his wife stating that her mother, Mrs. Jas. H. Chase departed this life yesterday at her home in Seattle, Wash. Mrs. Chase resided in Fort Scott for about a year with Mr. and Mrs. Charlton and her death will be sad news to the many friends she made here. She was a noble, good woman.—Fl. Scott (Kansas) Daily Tribune.

Mrs. Chase was for many years a resident of Ironton and the news of her death will be learned with sorrow.

The north-bound train from Memphis has been frequently late for the past week or more. The delay is occasioned by the high water from the Mississippi extending forty miles or more west from Memphis and nearly to Wynne, Arkansas. It takes the trains about five hours to make the run of forty-five miles between Memphis and Wynne. It is understood that the water is up along the track the entire distance, and is some instances the rails are covered two or three inches. This occasions the delay in the train reaching here.

Ed. Lewey, the mail carrier from this place to Edge Hill, brought us the following note, on last Friday from the Postmaster at Edge Hill: "One day last week a man by the name of Martin killed his wife. He drove a nail in her head and stabbed her near the heart. He then put cotton in the wound. The family lived on Dry Creek near Silgo Mo., after the killing he buried her in the yard. People learned of the affair and the country is full of men looking for the murderer. They suppose he was making his way South."—Reynolds Outlook.

The Sheriff Tuesday morning arrested Mason Hull, a boy about seventeen years of age who lives with his parents at Pilot Knob. Young Hull is wanted in Waseca, Minnesota, where he is charged with having stolen $145 from a farmer with whom he lived some two or three months ago. The Minnesota authorities will come here for the prisoner. Sheriff O'Neal has been on the lookout for Hull several weeks but the boy kept away from home. Last Monday however, he returned and the boy's father came down to Ironton and told the Sheriff the boy was ready to surrender. Sheriff O'Neal received a telegram from the Sheriff at Waseca Wednesday morning saying he would come after the prisoner.

An enterprising citizen, whose wife is very fond of flowers and an enthusiast over gardens, hands us the following local item: "It is the general opinion of medical men that nothing is so beneficial to women as the exercise of destroying the weeds and looking after the tender plants that grow in the garden. It brings the roses to their cheeks and thereby adds greatly to their beauty; besides a study of the vegetable kingdom adds much to their knowledge. It has a contrary effect on men. The violent exercise shatters nerve centers to such an extent that they are unfit for business for a whole day afterward, and are in consequence sometimes unable to make money to buy fall hats for their wives."

Says an exchange: "One great trouble of Americans is that they know exactly how to manage the affairs of their fellows. The old maid professes her sister advice upon the management of her husband, and an old bachelor can give a father pointers as to the rearing of his boys. The man who would starve but for the industry and frugality of his wife, feels competent to manage the finances of his country, and people who can not be entrusted to drive ducks to water will explain to our wisest how to get to heaven. The man who could not turn a hand organ if it were fastened to him, can tell you just how to run your business. And the man who can't run anything else on earth generally knows how to run a newspaper."

The I. O. O. F. association of South-east Missouri will meet in Poplar Bluff on Tuesday, April 27, to celebrate the anniversary of the founding of the order. Special trains will be run from De Soto, De Lasse, Charleston, Kennett, Malden and intermediate points. A large number of the best people of Missouri will on this occasion enter the gates of our hospitable city. We must do our prettiest to entertain them from the standpoint of sociability and pride and from a knowledge also that anything short of this duty would be detrimental to the welfare of our beautiful and progressive little city. The program so far as proposed already includes some splendid entertainment, with music, dancing, a theatrical mock initiation, etc.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

Here is a story taken from a late issue of the Poplar Bluff Daily Herald. We're very much inclined to doubt the truthfulness of the incident therein related, but the story is possibly worth reproduction anyway. "Up in Ironton there lives a class of people who are religiously inclined, and the ministers in that city fare better than ministers generally do. A rather amusing incident occurred there not long since. A good lady was the happy mother of two interesting daughters, a large one and a small one. The little one aged about six, and the older one a prepossessing girl, had seen about eighteen summers and as many tough winters. For short, we will call the little one Mabel and the young lady Mary. At any rate, the young minister was there on a visit, after services, one Sunday, and the good old mother was preparing dinner. Unfortunately for the mother, she was near-sighted, and leaving her glasses in the kitchen had entered the parlor occupied by the minister and her two daughters, and not being able to discern objects, addressed Mabel thusly: 'Get up and let Mary have your seat, Mabel.' Mary was standing by the center table and Mabel was sitting on the young preacher's lap. The young preacher's face played hide and seek with all the colors of the rainbow, while Mary rushed out of the room and was heard to remark, 'Mother will see the death of me yet.' The mother now wears her glasses on all occasions, in order to prevent any more such fatal blunders."

Annapolis News.

Ed. Register—News of a startling nature is not to be found in this "neck of the woods," this week. Items are very scarce.

D. Richard, the gentleman who is going to revive the Republican at Ironton, was in town the other day in the interest of his paper. He seems a pleasant gentleman and, although we differ with him in politics, he has our best wishes.

Joseph Sutton, Homer Gaskin, Robt. Stewart, Dr. J. E. Gilles, and C. J. Wadlow of Murrill Springs were in town Saturday evening four of them to learn more of the mysteries of Odd Fellowship. As a consequence Granite Lodge, No. 421, had work in all the degrees. And as a consequence several minutes were borrowed from the early watch of Sunday.

Wm. Curtis of Ironton was in town Saturday and Sunday.

Somewhat are teaching the science of mathematics here.

Rev. Alcorn went to Bellevue yesterday to fill his regular appointment. Mary, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Johnson, is reported sick with the measles at the home of Thos. Johnson in Piedmont.

Several dogs have been killed here lately, supposed to be suffering with hydrophobia.

The saw mills are now running on full time.

Miss Allie Fitz of Des Arc is visiting friends here.

Rev. Curl has been on the sick list, but is able to be out again.

March 27, 1897. CRUX.

Ladies' hose 5, 7 and 10 cents per pair at the Racket Store.

From Graniteville.

Ed. Register—Mr. G. B. Clifton has returned, bringing with him a helpmate in the person of Miss Louisa Schoch of Bismarck, with whom he was joined together in the holy bonds of matrimony at St. Louis last Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Clifton are now at home having secured a suite of rooms at Mrs. Hartman's. Mr. Clifton has accepted the position as chief clerk and manager of the Schneider Granite Company store and will enter upon the duties as such April 1st.

Mr. John Meyers, a millwright of Bismarck, visited in town last Friday and Saturday with his sister, Mrs. Henry Hiltman. Mr. Meyers left Sunday for Fort Worth, Texas, looking out for a situation in the sunny south.

Master Russell Smith visited with friends at the Southern Hotel, St. Louis, Friday and Saturday, returning home yesterday.

Miss Helen Golden spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in retreat at Ursuline college, Arcadia.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Walsh also visited the college last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Stafford and daughter, Pearl, of Pilot Knob, visited with Mr. Wm. Steffens and family on Sunday afternoon last.

Messrs. F. P. Ake, acting editor of the IRON COUNTY REGISTER, W. P. Wemp, that genial agent and knight of the key of the Iron Mountain railway, and H. J. Grover, one of the greatest hustlers and most widely awake livery managers of Iron county, and Frank Rasche, of blacksmith fame of Arcadia, were in town Sunday taking in the sights.

Our town is at present running over with McKinley confidence and prosperity and the place and people are enjoying a veritable boom, bananas are selling at $5 a bunch, beer 5 cents a glass, sugar 1 dozen pounds for a dollar, just think of it (the sugar trust). Protect sugar, coal, wool, iron and oil, for the Carnegies, Spreckels and Rockefeller are poor meddles and need to be protected, yet they tell us that the tariff is not a tax. Such rot might be crammed down the throats of the unenlightened and it used to, but it doesn't go now.

Candidates for County Commissioner of Schools are coming around now pretty rapidly. On Saturday last there but a very few laps between two or more of them at this place and it is a problem now hard to solve whether this gap will be increased or diminished on Tuesday next.

Mr. Ira Kneiss is yet at home, here with his sick father who is slowly, but we hope surely recovering.

Mr. Robt. Trauericht is having an attack of rheumatism, and has to "cane it" a little.

Mrs. Chas. Reno and Mrs. Maze are quite poorly.

Elder D. W. Crow of Farmington held the first quarterly meeting of the new conference year at this place on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. David Osterle, while on residents of this bailiwick, but now of St. Francis county, are visiting in parental circles at Middlebrook at present.

Mrs. B. F. Kidd is quite ill at present.

We saw several families moving their household effects last Sunday. They evidently believe in the old maxim, "the better the pay, better the deed."

From Lesterville.

I drop these few remarks for consideration. I mean for the citizens of Iron county to consider. Prof. Hawkins is a worthy and deserving young gentleman. I wish to recommend him for Iron's next Commissioner, because he is thorough in every way. There is not a doubt but that he is amply qualified for the position for which he is a candidate. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school law requires and as the teachers demand. To be brief, he is a wise and every respect. His methods for teaching are commendable and up-to-date style. Prof. Hawkins' idea of managing an Institute is that which was intended when Institutes were adopted. Not a written examination from beginning to ending, but as the school